CALIFORNIA STATE GOLD PRODUCTION INCREASES

These are still "days of gold".

Today, 84 years after James W. Marshall discovered nuggets at Sutter's mill, California continues to outrank all other States in gold production. Las year's output approximated eleven million dollars, an increase of $1,250,000 over 1930 and nearly $2,250,000 over 1929. More than 60 per cent of these millions came from quartz mines in Nevada and Amador counties and from dredging operations in Sacramento and Yuba.

The last two years have witnessed a widespread revival if small-scale placer mining. Hundreds of men unemployed in other industries have turned prospectors and are working with picks, shovels and pans along the north-State streams. Nuggets and dust gathered by them find their way to the mint and help to keep California in the forefront of mining States.

More Quartz Mining

Quartz mining has also made great strides in recent years. The consolidated Empire and North Star mines at Grass Valley, which have produced continuously since 1850, have increased their mechanical equipment and are carrying on extensive exploration work. The two properties are turning out 700 tons of quartz a day.

The Idaho Maryland, nearby, which was reopened in 1929 after a 27-year shutdown, is being developed like a new mine. The Brunswick, owned by the same company, was recently reconditioned and is also being energetically operated with a large crew. Employees in these two old producers have grown from 100 to 170 during the past eighteen months.

Murchie Is Busy

The Murchie mine, near Nevada City, is rebuilding its equipment to handle 250 tons of ore per day.

Jackson presents similar pictures of activity. The Argonaut mine is now working at a depth of 5083 feet and is installing a second hoist to go down ever farther. It is also planning to install an electric locomotive underground. The Kennedy, too, is installing a second hoist at the 4600 foot level of its vertical shaft, which now is down 4950 feet and is being deepened to 5100 feet. The Central Eureka is now operating at the 2300 foot level.

The famous old Carson Hill mine, near Melones, has just been put in shape for large-scale operations, and many other important properties on the Mother Lode are joining in the expansion program.

Great Contrast

The contrast between quartz mining of yesterday and today is amazing. When George Knight discovered the first quartz vein at Grass Valley, in 1850, operations were carried on by man power. Then came various stages of steam power, and finally, in the nineties ,electric power. Electricity is now so widely used that the P. G. & E. load totals 47,864 horsepower—enough for a city of 35,000 homes.

The Empire-Star properties exemplify all-electric operation. The company's 600 men have 7189 horsepower at their command. Giant motors run the two hoists that go 9000 feet underground on the incline of the vein—to a vertical depth of about 4500 feet. Others operate stamp mills, machine shops, pumps, conveyors and ventilating systems. Electricity also compresses air for ore drills, charges batteries for ore train locomotives, and lights 140 miles of underground drifts.

But Few Mules Left

In striking contrast to these modern methods, a few mules still haul ore cars in the mine, but only because the owners do not want to turn them out to die. They're so accustomed to the constant temperature of 67 degrees that, if brought to the surface, they could not stand changes from one season to another or even from day to night. Incidentally, some of the mules chew tobacco—all right, ask the superintendent—and won't work without a good part of a plug tucked under their tongues.

Modern mechanical science, however, has taken much of the glamor out of mining. Even with prospectors back on the job, the present days of gold are a far cry from the hectic era ushered in by Mashall's discovery—when Placerville was "Hangtown" and Auburn was "Wood's Dry Diggin's." Only by contrasts do they suggest the time when devil-may-care pioneers squandered pokes of "dust" in such rip-roaring "camps" as Rough and Ready, Shasta, Timbuctoo, You Bet, Downieville, Poker Flat and Columbia. Many of the once thriving places have disappeared; others have become ghost cities with blocks of paneless windows and rusty iron doors. But mining for gold still goes on, and always will as long as there is a grain of "dust" in the sands of the Yuba, the Feather, or the American or a speck of quartz in the Mother Lode.

WOULD MAKE KIDNAPPING PUNISHABLE BY DEATH

Washington, D. C. Apr. 14—A bill to make kidnaping a crime punishable by death was introduced into the House of Representatives recently by Congressman Joe Crail, (Republican) of California.

The provisions of the bill would apply to kidnaping crimes in which the vctim mght be transported across a state line, which would place the matter under the jurisdiction of the Federal Government.

"The Lindbergh baby kidnaping is only one of a long series of crimes of this outrageous sort which must be stopped," Congressman Crail declared, in explaining his motive for the proposed legislation. "Now that bootlegging has been hit by the depression, kidnaping has shown an increase, and this vicious form of racketeering must be stamped out at once."

Demands have been made of several state legislatures that bills making kidnaping a crime subject to capital punishment be enacted.

Conspiracy between two or more persons to commit a kidnapng also comes under the provisions of the bill, which would permit punishment by death, or, "upon recommendation of a jury for clemency, imprisonment in the penitentiary for such term of years as the court in its discretion shall determine.

District Attorney and Mrs. J. M. McMahon of Downieville were recent visitors in Nevada City.

MONITORS ARE WORKING AT SIERRA PLACER MINE

The Indian Hill hydraulic mine near Camptonville has washed over 50,000 yards of top material, and piping on the exposed bottom gravel has commenced.

Superintendent Fred J. Joubert states that six weeks more water is easily available, which will give them a good water season.

The property is being operated by B. T. Dyer and associates of Los Angeles.

Henry Myers of Tyler was a Nevada City visitor Tuesday.

MARSHALL GISELMAN IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Marshall W. Giselman, widely known. professional musician and musical instructor of this city, narrowly escaped serious injury several miles down the Auburn highway early Monday morning when his car left the roadway, struck a bank and overturned. Giselman was picked up by a passing motorist and brought to Grass Valley.

He was driving from San Francisco and had traveled a large part of the night. It is thought that he fell asleep momentarily.

April Showers

RELIEF HILL MINE

A crew of about twevle men are employed at the Relief Hill mine where they are cleaning out the old tunnel and making preparations for steady work. Plans are to drift 200 feet.

There are about 250 acres of ground in the property.

Mr. Fletcher Hamilton is superintendent at the mine.

SHOULDER BROKEN

Falling from a stepladder in her home at the foot of Boulder street yesterday morning, Mrs. Florence Evans, long-time resident of Nevada City, broke the bones in her shoulder and was taken immediately to a Grass Valley hospital.

MILL STARTS AT THE FAMOUS MURCHIE MINE

The mill at the Murchie mine was started several days ago and more of that famous ore is being ground and shipments of the precious yellow metal will soon be on its way to the smelting plant.

In the neighborhood of 80 men are employed at the Murchie mine. As the need develops in the coming months more men will be added until they have a larger crew than the old company.

The Newmont Company who purchased the property a few months ago, has made a number of additions and changes in machinery that will assist the new management in placing the mine on a larger daily production basis when it gets in full operation.

We understand the company is rebuilding its equipment to handle 250 tons of ore daily.

Mr. Kirvin, a mining man of wide experience, is superintendent at the Murchie mine.

THREE UNAPPOSED AT NEVADA CITY POLLING

With only fifty-eight votes cast, one of the quietest city elections in Nevada City in years resulted Tuesday in the election of Wade Armstrong, C. Ray Murchie and A. Seaman as councilmen. They are the incumbents, and had no opposition.

FEDERALS RAID STILL

The federal prohibition agents out of Sacramento siezed a distillery of 600 gallons daily capacity on a ranch in the Wolf Creek district eight miles from Higgins Corners, and placed the employees, Charles Soldaveni and Gina Mazzoni, in the county jail. The men were removed to Sacramento the following day to face charges in the U. S. district court.

Several months ago an alcohol distillery was seized near the Auburn highway which was about the same size.

Chief Clerk Wm. M. Gracey and United States forest service officers are engaged in dismantling the plant.

RAIN WEDNESDAY

Nevada City was again visited by beneficial April showers Wednesday that will do the country many hundreds of dollars worth of good.

Miss Minnie White was a recent visitor in Palo Alto with relatives.

FOURTH OF JULY?

A mass meeting of merchants and citizens was held last night at the city hall, which had been called by a chamber of commerce committee for the purpose of ascertaining the wishes of the community as to a Fourth of July celebration here. A very limited attendance being present, it was decided to canvass individually the business men and others of the community before deciding.

Chairman George H. Calanan presided. The other members of the committee are H. A. Kjorlie, C. W. Leiter, George Gildersleeve and E. Shreiber.

Mrs. Annie Browning is seriously ill at her home with pneumonia.

IMPROVEMENTS BEING MADE AT LAKE VERA

At Lake Vera situated about three miles north of Nevada City, a number of improvements are being made around the piers and swimming beaches of the various Camp Fire Girls and Mills College lodges or summer camps.

It is rumored that plans are under way for the erecting of a building by the Piedmont Camp Fire Girls and the Kiwanis Club of Oakland will build a shower at the Oakland Camp.

A water system was put in last summer which takes water to all camps by gravity from the Snow Mountain ditch.

During the summer months there are several hundred girls and instructors from Mills College, Oakland, Piedmont and Sacramento camp fire girls and college students, that spend a fortnight or so of vacation there. The camps are ideally situated near the shores of Lake Vera and in the beautiful pine timber.

FUNERAL IS HELD FOR DARSIE RIDGE

Funeral services were conducted at St. Patrick's church in Grass Valley Tuesday for Darsie Ridge, scion of a noted family, who died in that city this week. He was the son of Andrew Jackson Ridge, an attorney of wide note, and nephew of John Rollen Ridge, early day poet and editor of Superior California, whose residence was in Grass Valley. His wife, Mrs. Ella Ridge, died two years ago.

Ridge was born in Texas in 1861, but had spent most of his life in our neighbor city. He engaged in desultory mining and other work and was devoted to hunting and fishing.

A brother, Frank Ridge, and a sister, Mrs. N. R. Frick, survive.

Due to the fast that Mr. Ridge died suddenly and without medical attention, an inquest will be conducted by Coroner A M. Holmes.

JIM ALLEN BREAKS LEG

T. J. (Jim) Allen of Nevada City suffered a broken leg Saturday while engaged in logging east of this city, on the Tahoe Ukiah highway. In pulling the logs out with a tractor his leg got caught between a log and the tractor crushing the bones in his knee.

He was taken to the Nevada City Sanitarium where Dr. A. H. Tickell set the bones. It will be some time before he will be able to go to work again.

MINING CELEBRATION IN OROVILLE MAY 12-14

Nevada City and community are invited to attend the second annual state wide mining convention to be held in Oroville May 12-13-14 in a letter received today from George E. Brown, chairman of the executive committee in charge of arrangements for the affair. He also states that miners who expect to attend the celebration are asked to start growing beard and to be prepared to attend in costume.

Every effort to have Oroville live over the days when it was known as Ophir and was the center of mining activities in Butte county are being made. Store fronts will be decorated and business house employees are wearing costumes. Streets will be named after famous mines and mining districts and ore will be placed on prominent streets corners for visitors to try their hand at panning.

Panning and drilling contests, parades, a rodeo, drum corps elimination contest, a ball game, '49er camp and tours are included on the program for the entertainment of visitors.

The three day celebration will start with a parade led by Governor James Rolph and the Queen, who is being selected through a state wide contest. A luncheon and banquet in their honor will be opened to the puolic to be followed by a grand march at the ball.

Every effort to make the convention a success is being put forth by the committee in charge.

TAXES DELINQUENT SOON

Next Wednesday at 5 o'clock in the afternoon the second installment of taxes will expire and added penalties for non-payment will be added. If payment is not made the property will be sold to the state for the amount of the tax bills and this further increases charges for non-payment.

As payment of taxes are coming in slowly, Tax Collector Frank Steel urges tax payers to make payments as soon as possible to avoid the last minute rush, or that it may be overlooked altogether.

Forest Supervisor R. L. P. Bigelow was an official visitor in Reno Wednesday.

COST REDUCED ON DEBRIS STORAGE, BULLARDS DAM

The Pacific Gas and Electric company announced that it has reduced the cost of hydraulic debris storage behind Bullards Bar dam one third, this month. The company owns the dam, and many thousands of yards of debris will be stored there this season with the abundance of water for hydraluicking.

The present rate of three cents per yard has been reduced to two cents.

It is expected that many properties that could not be worked at a profit before, will be operating to full capacity and make good profits.

JOSEPH GARIBALDI DIES OF LONG-LASTING ILLNESS

Joseph Garibaldi, who has been ill for a long time, passed away Wednesday morning in Nevada City from an incurable illness.

He was 74 years of age and came to California from Boston, Mass., when a small boy. He lived in Sierra county until he grew to manhood

Mr. Garibaldi conducted a grocery store and also operated a freight line between Downieville and Marysville, for many years. While in Downieville he married Miss Emma Merroux. One daughter, born to this union, Mrs. Marie Hall, now lives in Oregon. Surviving children by a later marriage are Mrs. Carl Trevethick of Nevada City, and Elmer Garibaldi of Richmond. A brother, Louis Garibaldi, lives at Tyler.

He was a helpful, honest and industrious citizen and will be missed in this community.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock today from the Holmes Funeral Home, with Rev. H. H. Buckner officiating. Burial will take place in Downieville cemetery.

BACK TO GOOD TIMES MOVEMENT LAUNCHED

California, long the "white spot" of the nation, is now the recognized leader upon whom the entire country is looking to swing business back to sound prosperity.

This is indicated in the volume of telegrams and letters received by A. P. Giannini, chairman of the board of Transamerica, who recently launched the state-wide "Back-to-Good-Times" campaign of the Bank of America. Men high in business, finance and labor have joined in expressing their congratulations on the campaign announced in the press, designed to put California's dollars to work.

Rowell Featured

The "Back-to-Good-Times" campaign has featured Chester H. Rowell, noted journalist and publicist, in radio programs over stations KGO and KFI. Rowell who is a keen student of world economies, traced the trend of business and cited the reasons why he believes California can lead the nation, "Back-to-Good Times."

Among those telegraphing their congratulations on the Bank of America's campaign is Lee H. Bristol, of New York,president of the Association of National Advertising who wired:

"We have just received the inspiring reports of the great campaign which you have started in California. We know the spirit of California and that you will not stop short of a complete solution of the unemployment problem in your state. This is the background of prosperity. Putting idle men back to work puts idle money back to work. We wish you every success."

Others Congratulate

C. M. Chester, president of General Foods, New York City, has handed to Giannini the laurels of business leadership in the following telegram of congratulation:

"Advertising campaign for economic recovery through release of idle dollars most constructive and commendable. You and your organization are to be congratulated for this California leadership."

The American Federation of Labor also sees in the campaign relief from the unemployment that has followed in the wake of economic readjustment. Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, has wired as follows:

"Allow me to offer heartiest congratulations on splendid campaign being organized for employment in California and to you for your own magnificent efforts. When our people are returned to work we will be on the way to a sound prosperity with money following men back to healthful activity."

GOOD ORE BODIES BEING MILLED IN MARIPOSA COUNTY

The mill at the Spencer mine in the Sherlock district, Mariposa county, was started recently and it is reported that there is a fine showing of ore in this mine. Development work will continue and it is intended that the mill be in operation three shifts.

At the Diltz, it is planned to sink the shaft 100 feet deeper.

The mill is being operated here with very satisfactory results as the excellent ore shoots opened up last winter continues.

FRENCH CORRAL

French Corral, April 14—With all outdoors just teeming with lovliness how can we help exclaiming, "Beautiful April! Oh Beautiful April! It would seem there isn't place for one unhappy thought. Yet, could you believe it, we are really in need of rain. After all those weeks of severe winter you would think the earth could never get dry again. But surely they will come,—those "April showers," that help to bring May flowers.

Many people come and go in this section, and we can hardly keep track of all.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Sutherland returned Tuesday evening from their trip to Los Angeles, where they have spent the past two weeks, visiting with friends

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Court of Oakland have come to French Corral to reside. Mr. Court is interested in mining.

Mr. Olvezaro of Oakland is now a resident of French Corral.

B. Taylor, who has spent several months here in charge of the Golden Fleece mine, has gone to Grass Valley.

William LaComb of Oregon is visiting his uncle, P. G. Peletier of this place.

F. Bean of Mooney's' Flat spent part of the past week in French Corral.

J. W. Culver made a trip to Auburn Saturday, where Mrs. Cluver who had been visiting for the past week with the family of her son, Edward Wilcoxon. Both returned to French Corral Saturday.

Miss Frances Moulton came from Sacramento Saturday, to spend the ween end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Moulton. On her return trip Sunday afternoon, Miss Barbara McMinn accompanied her as far as Nevada City.

Mrs. A. Browning was called to Nevada City Sunday on account of the serious illness of Mrs. Annie Browning. She was accompanied by her son, Clyde.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Wilcoxon and Mrs. E. Hartung of Pleasant Valley were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Culver.

Hhos Hall of Birchville was a visitor in French Corral Sunday.

A practice game of baseball was played in Tabor's field Sunday. From the returns of the game, we judge the one thing most needed there, was an ambulance. Several from French Corral attended the game.

J. Swazey made a trip to Nevada City Saturday. Joe's many friends will be pleased to learn that he has received good news from Hollywood in re, a movie song.

A. Browning made a trip to Sacramento yestesday.

J. Mathe of New Jersey is spending some time in French Corral.

Right here we wisn to mention our appreciation of tne articles written by J A. Wolff and Sdmunn Kinyon, historical and descriptive of Nevada county. We know that Mr. Wolff has done a great deal of research work in his efforts to establish the fact that the first long distance telephone line was from French Corral to Eureka, now Graniteville, 60 miles of line, in Nevada county, California.

G. Woodstocn of San Jose was a visitor during the week. He was seeking information in regard to the early history of this section.

We think that every loyal Nevada countyan should show appreciation by their patronage of our splendid county newspapers.

Only recently we learned of the death of an ex-resident of the San Juan Ridge, Miss Sarah Davis, whose early life was spent in Sweetland, passed away in Oakland some months ago. She attended school in Sweetland and later was a graduate from Mills College. She was on the staff of the Nevada county teachers for a number of years. Her family members were closely associated with interestes of the San Juan Ridge. Her brother-in-law, the late O. C. Perkins, was at one time superintendent of mines from North Bloomfield to French Corral. Miss Davis and her sister, Elizabeth traveled extensively in Europe, and of late years made their home in Oakland. We are grieved to learn of her demise.

Before closing we must extend our sympathy to the members of the family of the late John McQuaid, who passed away at Marysville recently. The members of that splendid pioneer family were for many years closely associated with the interests of our San Juan Ridge that we have for them a feeling of kinship. The late Frank McQuaid had the stage line from San Juan to Smartsvillef or many years and after his marriage to Miss Kaite McNamara of Sweetland resided in San Juan. In the stage line business his brother, John, assisted him. All members of the family were highly respected and it is, with deepest sorrow, we regret their passing.

LEASE MINE AT HAPPY CAMP

A mining lease of more than passing interest has ben secured on the old Evans ranch, six and one-halt miles east of Happy Camp, on the Klamath River, covering the mineral rights on 211 acres of land on which lie three ancient river channels, that will be prospcted with a drag line.

This has been a successful method adopted on the river.

It is all virgin ground on the old Evans ranch and runs 10 cents per cubic yard at only 18 inches below the surface.

The ground, several feet from the surface however shows up mucn richer than at only shallow depths.

W. B. Mason of Dunsmuir, a prominent business man, and E. M. Bordwell, a well known bridge contractor, have taken a five year lease on the property from the owners, Mr and Mrs. C. A. Fowler of Happy Camp, the Fowlers having reserved all mining rights when they leased the ranch last fall to Marshall Crawford.

One attractive feature to Mr. Crawford is the abundant supply of water for irrigating the ranch from China creek.

Mr. Mason and Mr. Bordwell have the mining machinery on the ground and expect to begin operations at once.

This year has been dedicated to the glorious memory of George Washington, the father of the greatest nation of all time. With this in mind, it would seem particularly appropriate to hold this year all possible patriotic celebrations, thus adding strength to tradition that future generations may be made to feel more acutely the ideals of the builders of America. There is a question as to whether Nevada City will this year entertain visitors at an Independence Day festival, which is to be answered by the attitude of merchants and others who would make such a celebration possible. It is to be hoped enthusiasm will be forthcoming locally for this project, for Nevada City is ideally situated for such an occasion for thousands of dwellers in the hot valleys—and the advertising value of such an event is tremendously high.

And there is a psychological reason why the affair should be held this year. It will be a benefit to all of us to be interested in something besides the ever-present "depression." Perhaps if we could forget about it for a while it would cease to exist. In any event, let's "talk up" the Fourth of July celebration, and get action early while good orators, etc., are available.

"Strange as it may seem," the housing problem here is really more acute than the unemployment situation—as bad as that is. Nevada City should do something—immediately—towards taking care of the dozens of families seeking housing facilities here. A residence building expansion program successfully completed would necessarily result in thousands of additional dollars spent with local merchants. Who will "start the ball rolling"? We cannot believe there is no idle capital in this community.

YUBA RIVER COUNTRY

By J. L. WOLFF.

In the Yuba River canyon country eleven miles due north of Grass Valley was the crow flies, lies North San Juan—one of the most picturesque of the early mining camps. As it is located on the state highway to Downieville and the Yuba Pass it is easily reached from Grass Valley and Nevada City.

In the early 50's the town was called San Juan and boasted a population of several thousand. About 1857 the postoffice was established and the town's name changed to North San Juan. The present postmaster, Kern Fogarty, also operates the only store in town which is still located in the same building in which the business was established during the 50's. On the shelves can still be found some of the merchandise dating back to the nineteenth century and here, too, is one of the old cash registers when steel marbles were used to keep track of the day's business. It is a duplicate of the cash register we described at the Rough & Ready Hotel. Hanging from the ceiling are some of the old fire nozzles that were used by the fire company formerly located next door. Here in a little old fire house is a hose cart that was brought around the Horn for the city of San Francisco in the early 50's. When the Golden Gate city discarded its two whel carts for its four wheel wagons North San Juan fell heir to some of the old equipment. This fire cart still bears the original painting. In a garage built across the street is an old horse drawn hearse that will also prove interesting to visitors. The upper story of this brick building, in the early days, was the headquarters for the town band. The steel railing that helped to support the old veranda still clings to the brick walls. And it is here that the band used to assemble for their summer evening concerts.

In the early 60's the water supply for the hydraulic mines, further down the Ridge, was carried across town in a flume about 60 feet high. This flume together with a towering flag pole built in two sections dominated the sky line as shown by photographs still in existence. The flag pole itself dated back to the early 50's. It was built by sailors who had deserted their ships upon arrival at San Francisco so they might make their fortunes among the northern mines. The main street was at that time paved with wooden planks and the city was a prosperous commercial center, with its banks, hotels, stores, saloons, stables and a nwspaper which was one of the most influential in the state. Its editor Judge O. P. Stidger had been one of the big men of San Francisco who saw larger fields for his abilities among the gold mines. Many of the old buildings are still standing and many of the old homes are still inhabited. On the hill just above town the roadway winds around along the top of a cliff, which is the southern wall of a tremendous old hydraulic mine. This in itself is an awe inspiring sight but coupled with the view of snow crested mountain peaks it is indescribable. Many old timers used to tell of living on the hill that once stood there—before their homes were bought by the mining companies and "piped away."

From North San Juan to French Corral the road passes through Sweetland and Birchville. Both were quite populous in early days. During early spring ancient apple trees all along the Ridge are in bloom. Orchards are still bearing that were planted by miners in 1850 and '51 when single apples were selling for 50 cents— and more! French Corral was so named because of a mule corral erected there by a Frenchman in '49. From Sweetland to The Corral the visitor is carried back to early days as he passes the old time buildings, many of them still standing along the edge of the deserted hydraulic mines. It is as if the present had been turned back to yesterday. Nowhere in California can an entire stretch of country be found that so perfectly lies in the bygone days. French Corral was the western terminus of the world's first long distance telephone line and the old office of the "Milton Mining and Water Company" where it was located, still stands. This building is now being fixed up by Mr. Wm. Moulton as a grocery store. One of the early day saloons with most of its paraphernalia is close by. The present owner, Mr. Bishop still carries the key. In addition to many old homes, the school house that was a hotel in the 50's and the hotel at the lower end of town—built about '51 are still in use.

The return to Grass Valley can be made by way of the old covered bridge across the south fork of the Yuba River at Bridgeport. The trip into the canyon is amazingly beautiful and the twelve miles or more back to Grass Valley very interesting.

SHASTA MINE GROUP LEASED

Mrs. Christine Stephens of Monterey has given a bond and a lease on the Boswell group of sixty-six mining claims near Middletown, Shasta county, and four miles east of Redding, to F. A. Zimmerman.

Mrs. Stephens is seeking to recover some of the $300,000 her late husband spent on the mining venture engineered three years ago, and which failed.

CARSON HILL GOLD GROUP ACQUIRES NEW BACKING

Sonora, Calif., April 14—Official anouncement has juest been made of the successful termination of negotiations, in progress for more than a month, by which E. H. McMurray, Charles W. Taylor and J. A. Burgess, who have been identified with major mining operations in Nevada for more than 20 years, have purchased a large stock interest in the Carson Hill Gold Mining Corporation and taken over the management of its Carson Hill group of mines at Melones, credited with a past production exceeding $20,000,000. The properties of the company comprise opproximately 1,500 acres, including the Carson Hill, Morgan and Melones mines and extend for about three miles along the Mother Lode.

The official personnel of the company, as it is to be immediately reorganized, will be made up as follows: President, Mr. McMurray; vice-president, Lawrence MonteVerda, mining man of Angels Camp; secretary, W. A. Sutherland of Fresno, vice-president of the Security First National Bank of Los Angeles. These, with Mr. Taylor and Charles H. Segerstrom, president of the First National Bank of Sonora, will constitute the directorate.

It is anounced that the mine crew will be increased as rapidly as working conditions will permit and that the milling plant will, through installation of additional equipment, be enlarged from 500 to 1,000 tons of ore daily capacity and again placed in commission within 90 days, after being idle for over five years, to treat the immense tonnages of ores of varying grades available in the properties.

Mining and milling operations will be supervised by Mr. Burgess in his capacity as general manager. Mr. Burgess enjoys an international reputation as a successful mine operator. For many years he was connected with the Tonopah Mining Company at Tonopah and Wonder, Nevada, and the United Eastern Mining company at Oatman, Arizona, as well as other notable properties in Latin America. In recent years he has largely confined his efforts to consulting work.

BRIGHT FUTURE HELD FOR FOREST HILL GOLD MINING

Martin Costello, mining engineer, was also down from Forest Both Costello and Duffy are optomistic as to the future of that country. They believe there is plenty of good mining ground in that district.

P. T. A. AT FRESNO

My dear Editor: The California Congress of Parents and Teachers will have its convention in Fresno, April 25—29. We hope you can be there and see just what this organization is doing. Enclosed you will find a program, rather bum printing I should say, but better than to have to make mimeograph copies. The Congress would appreciate it if you would make note of such parts of the program as you think are of interest. Mrs. Lillian Moller Gilbreth is brought from New York for this program. But inviting you to be with us is not the only reason for writing. The Congress wants to thank you for the publicity of the past year. And I as publicity chairman want to thank you doubly. Hoping to see you at Fresno.

ELIZABETH NORCOMBE.

FOOTE-THOMPSON MINE BONDED SALT LAKE MEN

Mokelumne Hill, April 14.—The Foote Thompson mine owned by Percy Peek, Robert Irvine and John Genecco of Mokelumne Hill has been bonded to a group of Salt Lake City capitalists who plan to make an extensive examination of the property with the view of starting a large development program. The Foote and Thompson mine is one of the oldest mines in Calaveras county and is credited with a production record of over a half million dollars. The mine is fully equipped with machinery. It was tied up in litigation for twenty years.

Herbert Blais and Robert Irvine are working the Comet mine between San Andreas and Mokelumne Hill. They have discovered a ten foot ledge that is showing excellent values. The ore is being hauled to the mill of the Lamphere mine where it is being crushed.

Unwatering operations started last Monday at the Boundary Cone mine near here. Development and mining activity will begin as soon as the dewatering work is completed. This mine is one of the most famous in this section.

C OF C MEETS

A mass meeting was held Tuesday evening at the Elks Hall in the Chamber of Commerce rooms which was for the most part devoted to discussion of whether or not the people want to celebrate July 4th this year.

Members of the Woman's Improvement Club who were present wished to assist the Chamber of Commerce in preparing the celebration.

At the meeting it was decided to call a mass meeting at the city hall Thursday evening and all citizens were requested to attend.

Mayor R. J. Bennetts and committees from the Chamber of Commerce and Woman's Improvement Club were appointed to call the meeting and attend as representatives of the two organization.
